

Preview of “Do people act on their opinions?”

Department of Political Science and Government
Aarhus University

October 23, 2013

Overview for next week

Readings for next week

- Riker and Ordeshook – “A Theory of the Calculus of Voting”
- Olson – The Logic of Collective Action
- Fazio and Towles-Schwen – “The MODE Model”

Readings for next week

- Riker and Ordeshook – “A Theory of the Calculus of Voting”

Riker and Ordeshook

- Think back to Downsian decision making
- Is it rational to vote? Why?

Readings for next week

- Riker and Ordeshook – “A Theory of the Calculus of Voting”
- Olson – The Logic of Collective Action

Olson

- When and why should people be politically active?
When should they join groups?
- How do groups gain and maintain members?
- Note: You'll be seeing Olson again in a few weeks

Readings for next week

- Riker and Ordeshook – “A Theory of the Calculus of Voting”
- Olson – The Logic of Collective Action
- Fazio and Towles-Schwen – “The MODE Model”

Fazio and Towles-Schwen

- When do people act on their opinions/attitudes?
- What conditions are necessary for behavior?
- Do people act on their opinions consciously or unconsciously? Is behavior the result of a “decision” to act?

Who will write papers for next week?

